

Hello everyone,

I hope you are all safe and well. This weekend I was lucky enough to enjoy a walk with my gorgeous grandson, Oakley. The sun was shining and we had a lovely walk.

The children in nursery enjoyed the story of 'The tiger who came to tea' and we have been doing lots of activities linked to this theme.

- You could watch and listen to this story by following this link;

- We also made our own stripy tigers and cut out pictures of the food that we would like to give the tiger for his tea. Maybe you could have a go at doing this at home. You could make a picnic for the tiger to enjoy; maybe you could draw some food and cut it out carefully.

- We have also been looking at some books in nursery and trying to remember the characters from the books. I wonder if you can remember these characters; Mum, Dad, Biff, Chip, Kipper and Floppy the dog.

- The children have also enjoyed playing I-Spy with my little eye. Some children have been finding objects that start with the first sound in their name. Some children were challenged to find objects beginning with a range of sounds.

It was really lovely talking to you and your parents on Monday and I apologise if I couldn't make contact with you at that time. You all sounded very grown up and it was great to hear all your news.

Have a lovely week.

Mrs Glenwright
